The first staff of music is written in treble clef with a common time signature (C). It begins with a series of chords: a C major triad (C4, E4, G4), followed by a D major triad (D4, F#4, A4), then an E major triad (E4, G#4, B4), and so on, moving up the scale. The chords are written as vertical groups of notes, with some notes beamed together. The staff ends with a double bar line.
